CHROMA

July 17 – August 16, 2019
23 East 73rd St

Mariah Robertson, 332, 2017, c-print, 56 x 50 inches (142.2 x 127 cm)

For its summer group exhibition, Van Doren Waxter is pleased to present Chroma, a show that brings together color-specific works by artists from the gallery's roster and program. On view at 23 East 73rd Street from July 17 to August 16, 2019, the exhibition includes paintings, textile work, and works on paper.

Chroma features work by Caetano De Almeida, Moira Dryer, Aiko Hachisuka, Douglas Melini, Evan Nesbit, Mariah Robertson, Jackie Saccoccio, Alan Shields, and Hedda Sterne. The exhibition presents a meaningful dialogue about color that is highly personal and formally varied, qualities ascribed to the practices of Dryer, Shields and Sterne, whose works historically anchor this focused conversation. The show will also include patterned and optical paintings by De Almeida, Melini and Nesbit; as well as action-based works by Robertson and Saccoccio. As a group, their efforts express color ideas about different material processes; attention to and experimentation with hue saturation and shifts of tone; and how support and surface appearance play significant roles in each artist's finished work. Above all, there is the consequential chromatic engagement of their highly individual approaches - from playful to rigorous – and how their respective practices are entwined with color exploration.

About Van Doren Waxter

Van Doren Waxter cultivates a visually compelling post war and contemporary art program, informed by a commitment to the act of looking. Reflecting the shared vision of John Van Doren, Dorsey Waxter, Augusto Arbizu, and Liz Sadeghi to present formally rigorous historical and contemporary exhibitions, collectors are welcomed into a 1907 townhouse encompassing three floors of intimately scaled exhibition space. A considered schedule of conversations, scholarship, and publications offer a deeper understanding of materials and processes in the context of modern and contemporary art. Introducing innovative and global contemporary artists, juxtaposed alongside significant American Abstractionists, continues to distinguish Van Doren Waxter since its founding 20 years ago.

The gallery is privileged to serve as the custodian of vital artistic legacies, including the Richard Diebenkorn Foundation, the James Brooks Foundation, the Harvey Quaytman Trust, the Alan Shields Estate, and the Hedda Sterne Foundation, and for presenting the work of daring emerging and mid-career artists Caetano de Almeida,

Marsha Cottrell, TM Davy, Jeronimo Elespe, Volker Huller, Gareth Nyandoro, Sarah Peters, Mariah Robertson, Brian Rochefort, Jackie Saccoccio, and Daisy Youngblood. The gallery also handles secondary market post war work.
